Hello Ulyssians (that means Tburg too!)

We try not to fill up your inbox, but this time sensitive announcement of a great program just came in:

Interested in upgrading or enhancing your home's heating to save energy, and learning about options for lowering heating costs or reducing fossil fuel consumption? Need to replace that old hot water heater with something more efficient? HeatSmart is a program of the local nonprofit Solar Tompkins. It helps homeowners sort through their options for curbing their homes' energy appetites through air sealing, insulation, and high-efficiency heat pumps.

Come to a no-cost no-obligation informational meeting to learn more about Heatsmart and also meet the vetted installers, Snug Planet, Halco, NP-Environmental. Find out what they can do for your home!

There are two upcoming meetings in Ulysses, including one this week.

March 23rd (Thurs) — Ulysses 6:30-8:30pm, Racker Center, 3226 Wilkins Road 14850

April 15th (Sat) — Ulysses 10am-12pm, Ulysses Town Hall, 10 Elm St.

Visit <http://www.solartompkins.org> for the full meeting schedule and more information about the HeatSmart program, or contact Jonathan Comstock, HeatSmart Program Director, at jonathan@solartompkins.org, tel 607-351-1752
